

Bessie Hill House

602 Great Falls Road

The Bessie Hill House was constructed in 1902, and is associated with an African American kinship community that began with Ann Willson Davis, a free black woman who purchased a one-acre parcel along Great Falls Road in 1845. This house was built by Davis' granddaughter, for her daughter Bessie Hill. Family members still reside in Rockville. The Bessie Hill House is a good example of vernacular housing for working class residents in the early 20th century.
